

Sincerely grateful

Rick Costanzo

If it wasn't for my grades and my demerits from Mr. Millar I would have been in the National Honor Society. Those are the only two things that kept me out. All joking aside two of the greatest teachers of all time for me were Tim Robertson and Hank Wroblewski. I use my math skills every single day as a residential real estate appraiser. I had Mr. Wroblewski for Geometry and he drilled those precepts into our heads excellently. As for Mr. Robertson he knew his Algebra and Calculus and taught me very well. You think it is hard work at the time and it was but it was well worth the effort.

My years at St. Joes are remembered with lots of joy, learning and laughter. To this very day Jerry Cirino who was in my home room for 4 years can still make me laugh easily. And for Chuck Giomuso one of my good friends we get to serve the poor of Cleveland together from time to time and have a good time serving them. Bill Doyle and I have shared office space for over 30 years together and have also enjoyed each other's company and have grown spiritually together also.

St. Joe coupled with my Dad and Mom was a great foundation for faith formation and a great education for me. A most excellent four years.
